Financial Results Briefing

1. Overview of the First Half FY03/20 Financial Results (2019/4-9)

1 Business Environment

Business environment in 1H FY03/20

1. Despite lingering weakness, particularly in exports, the Japanese economy maintained its gradual recovery track, supported by robust corporate earnings and sustained improvements in the employment and income environments.
2. The construction market showed strength, thanks to firm public investment and private-sector capital spending amid an ongoing improvement in corporate earnings.
3. Construction costs remained within the range of expectations thanks to subsiding material/equipment costs, despite higher labor expenses.

Prospects

1. The Japanese economy is expected to gradually recover, benefitting from government policies as well as improvements in corporate earnings and in the employment and income environments. However, the outlook is still uncertain as we still need to be aware of the effects from the consumption tax hike and the direction of overseas economies.
2. The construction market looks to retain its strength thanks to private-sector capital spending and government investment aimed at disaster prevention and mitigations, as well as the “creation of a resilient national land.”
3. Amid large-scale redevelopment projects, largely in the major metropolitan areas, there is some concern tightening supply/demand conditions could lead to a sharp rise in construction costs. Among the numerous supply-side issues are work-style reforms, a reduction in long working hours, and a shortage of labor as older workers retire in mass.

1 1H FY03/20 Results (Consolidated)

Consolidated net sales (including at the parent and subsidiary levels) exceeded the previous-year level to reach a record high.

Profit attributable to owners of parent also reached a record high thanks to improved profit at the parent and an earnings recovery at the subsidiaries.

1H FY03/20 Results (Non-Consolidated)

Net sales increased 15.3% year on year amid progress in large-scale construction and civil engineering joint-venture subcontracting work.

1 1H FY03/20 Net Sales (Non-Consolidated)

Completed civil engineering construction sales benefitted from progress in large-scale joint-venture subcontracting work. Large-scale projects, including in Shibuya, contributed to building construction sales growth.

Net sales including real estate sales, expanded 15.3% year on year to ¥170.4 billion.

1 1H FY03/20 Gross Profit (Non-Consolidated)

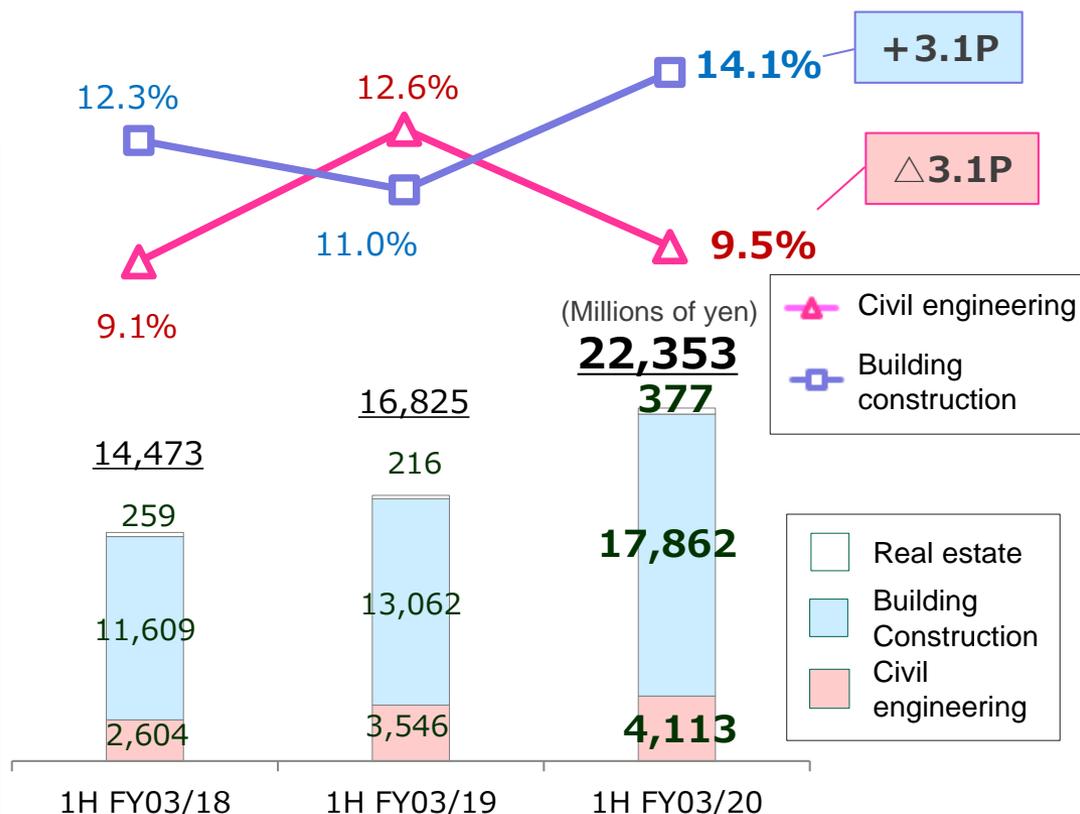

The civil engineering profit margin dropped 3.1pp year on year due to a high ratio of relatively low margin joint-venture subcontracting work and an unexpectedly high number of design change/addition projects received in the previous year.

The building construction profit margin exceeded expectations on improved profitability, mainly in large-scale projects, and higher completed construction sales.

Real estate profit showed a steady increase as profitable property acquisitions exceeded expectations in the previous year.

2 Full-Year Forecast for FY03/20

Completed Construction Sales and Gross Profit (Non-Consolidated, Civil Engineering)

We initially expected a gross margin of 7.8%, reflecting the dropout of temporary factors (such as an unexpectedly high number of design change/addition projects) and progress in a number of low-margin projects, including joint-venture subcontracting work, but now expect a gross margin of 9.0% on acquisition of additional projects.

2 Full-Year Forecast for FY03/20

Completed Construction Sales and Gross Profit (Non-Consolidated, Building Construction)

Large-scale construction orders received in the previous fiscal year were generally completed in the first half of FY03/20, with the completed construction sales expected to decline in the second half.

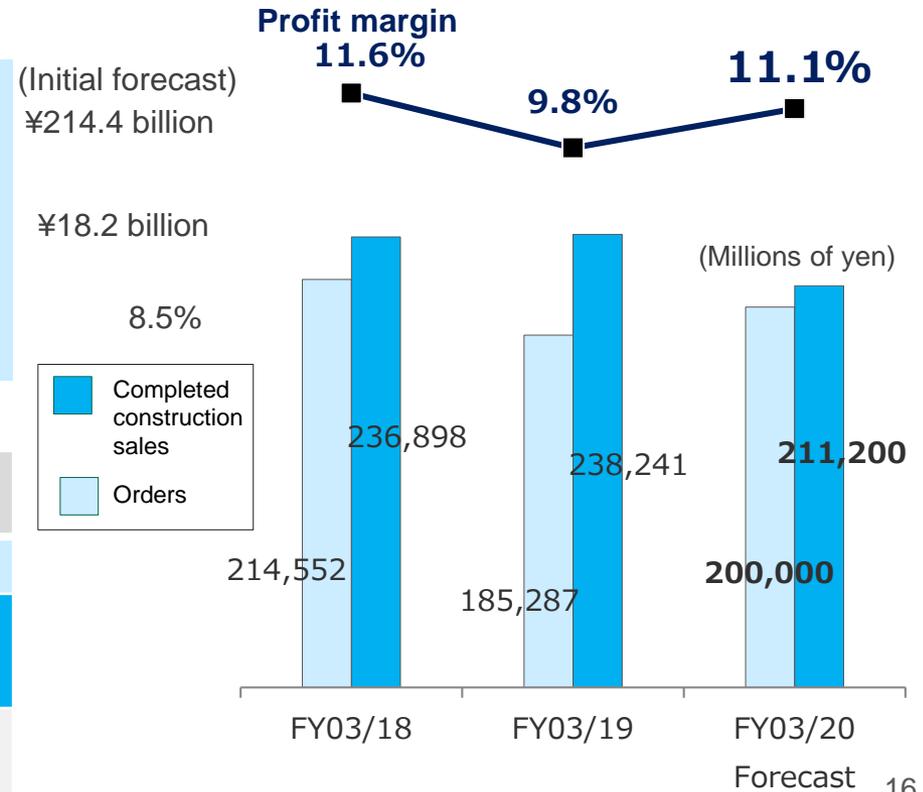

Strategic acceptance of some projects and sharp rise in costs is expected to reduce profitability on projects in progress in the second half, but we revised up our initial profit margin forecast by 2.6pp on the contribution from unexpectedly strong profit improvements in the first half of the fiscal year. We will continue to reduce costs and improve profitability through revisions to production systems and improving efficiency in construction.

2 Full-Year Forecast for FY03/20

Non-Consolidated Orders

Despite expecting a decline in orders overseas, we expect a year-on-year improvement in orders in Japan. Competition appears fierce in some areas, but we expect to secure orders in line with our initial forecast of ¥254 billion as we continue to tap into robust demand in the market.

[Environmental efforts]

Renovating to a Zero-Energy Building (ZEB)

We carried out ZEB renovation on a 25-year old technical institute rather than rebuilding it, achieving the highest level of energy reduction in Japan.

Amid growing calls to achieve a decarbonized society, we aim to further improve our technical capabilities in order to create zero-energy buildings that meet growing demand for ZEB renovation of older buildings.

Green Infrastructure Demonstration Facility

We established a green infrastructure demonstration facility in March 2018 and through the collection and analysis of data will further improve element technologies.

The facility focuses on using the functions of the natural environment to promote the preservation of biodiversity and to devise prevention and mitigation measures, including in regard to localized torrential rain, which has become more frequent in urban areas.

General picture of the urban solutions business and necessary action

3 Efforts to realize the urban solutions business by region

After assessing the potential for business in each region, we select focus areas. In addition to collecting information on major projects in the area, we conduct activities aimed at capturing demand in peripheral regions.

Focus Areas

Tenjin Big Bang

Hakata Connected

Waterfront Next

Urban development and redevelopment plan being promoted by City of Fukuoka

Osaka Expo

Osaka Expo to take place in Yumeshima

Urban redevelopment

Redevelopment plans, in the Shibuya area and mainly for after the Tokyo Olympics

Hotel Development

Resort hotel development plans, mainly on outlying islands

Activities aimed at capturing demand in the areas mentioned on the left

Securing information sources

- ✓ Ensuring information sources with deep roots in the area, including through collaboration with regional banks and by connecting to human networks such as local economic groups

Securing construction capacity

- ✓ Considering M&A/alliances in line with the building of relationships with local companies through efforts such as business succession support
- ✓ Considering M&A/alliances with agile construction companies in order to gain a chance at winning orders in areas peripheral to redevelopment projects

Strengthening cooperation with the Tokyu Group

- ✓ Bolstering ties with Tokyu Group companies to strengthen ability to offer proposals in areas outside tenant leasing and design/construction

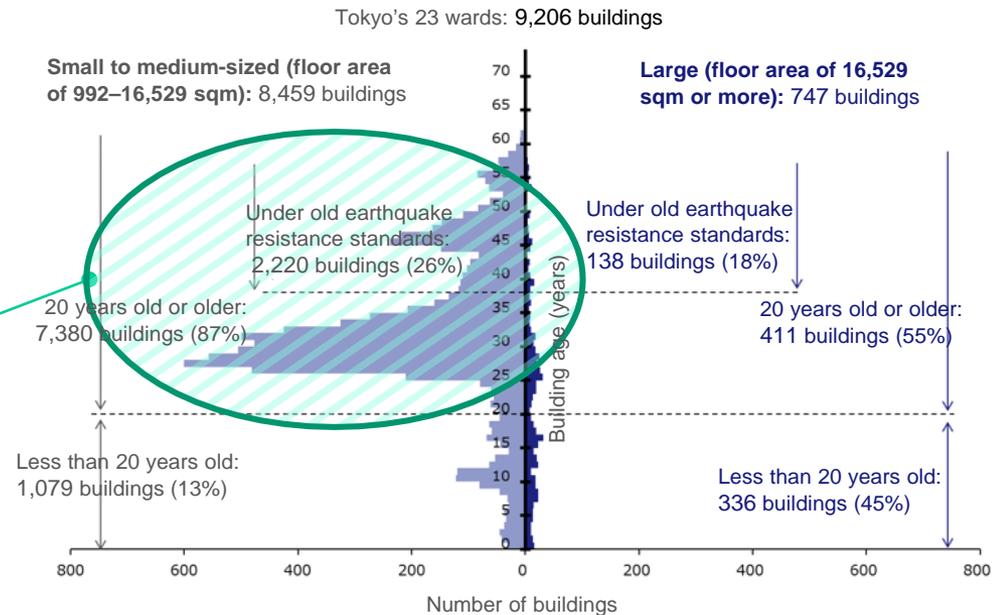

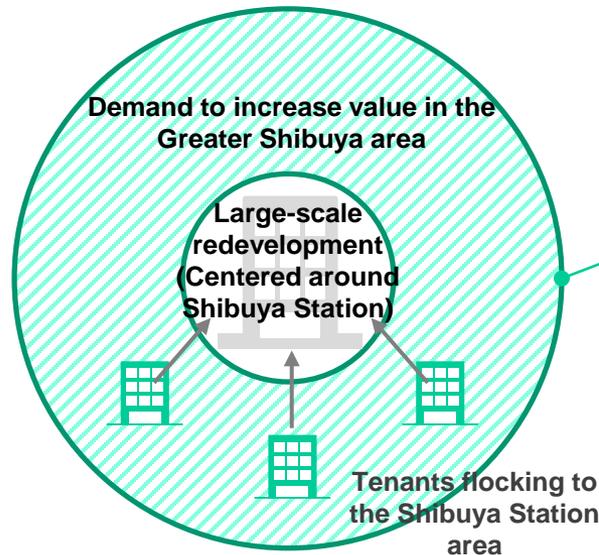

3 Initiatives in the Greater Shibuya Area

There are a great number of aging small and medium-sized buildings in the Greater Shibuya area, defined as the Shibuya Station area and surrounding areas. Given the concentrated flow of tenants to buildings in large-scale redevelopment projects, we are building an urban solutions business that cultivates growing demand to increase value in existing buildings in the peripheral areas.

Target market

-  Redevelopment centered around Shibuya Station
-  Surrounding areas where the company is focusing (Greater Shibuya area)

3 Our role in the Greater Shibuya area

Our ample record of achievements around Shibuya has been instrumental in building a solid relationship of trust with local neighborhood associations and shopping districts. Leveraging this strength, we will act as a point of contact and liaison in building communities in the Greater Shibuya area.

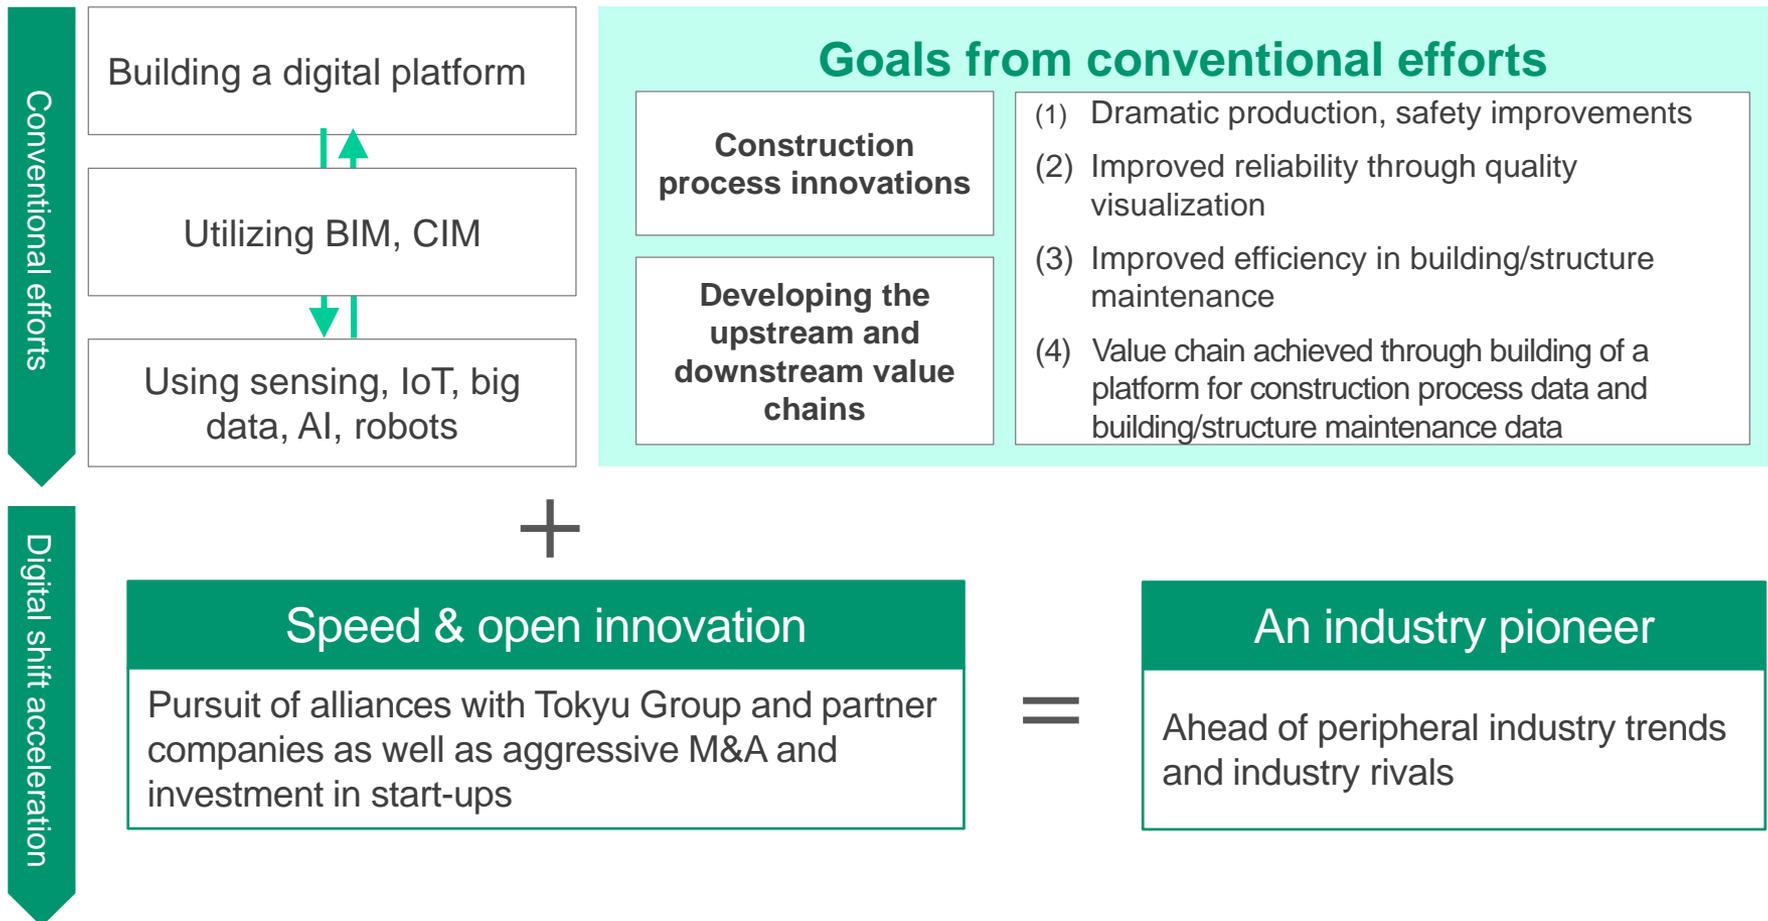

60 years of construction experience in Shibuya and friendly relationships with neighborhood associations and shopping districts.

3 Digital Shift of The Tokyu Construction

With the aim of preparing for digitalization and the changing needs of customers and the market, Tokyu Construction is leading the industry by actively pursuing M&A and alliances with partner companies for the coming digital shift.
